Dear Mr. Zaima, Hal

On behalf of the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute, thank you for the generous grant in the amount of $5,000 from Eagles for Children Inc., received November 20, 2013. This grant will support the Friends Like Me art therapy program at the Weisberg Cancer Treatment Center in Farmington Hills, helping us address the emotional needs of children that are struggling with cancer in their family.

Our Karmanos staff is committed to helping patients and their families with the emotional, physical and psychosocial issues that are related to their cancer treatment. By providing supportive care we are able to assist in improving clinical outcomes and facilitating communication between clinical services and clinical support services. Friends Like Me helps children of all ages cope more effectively when they have a parent, grandparent or sibling with cancer through the use of professional art therapy. The program provides a creative outlet as the foundation to address difficult and complex emotions.

Karmanos is proud to be one of only 41 comprehensive cancer centers in the United States. This designation ensures our community has access to the most advanced treatments available while furthering research to improve outcomes. None of this would be possible without philanthropic assistance from individuals and foundations in our community whose gifts help preserve and enhance the research, patient care and educational outreach of the Institute.

On behalf of the families who will benefit from this generosity, congratulations on the success of your efforts and thank you to Eagles for Children and Oakland Hills Country Club for this gift to the Friends Like Me program so that we can better serve children in need.

Sincerely,

Nick Karmanos
Senior Vice President, Institutional Relations
